

Energy in Today's Classroom

Application

This ground breaking program was developed by Central Electric Power Cooperative and the University of Missouri-Columbia. It consists of 15 hours of teacher training, worth 1 Master's credit.

To be considered for Energy in Today's Classroom, please return this information sheet no later than January 31st. The class is held in August each year.

Name: _____

Street Address: _____

City: _____ Zip: _____

Email: _____ Phone Number: _____

School Name: _____ Subject(s) Taught: _____

The course covers topics including:

- Energy basics
- Power generation and transmission
- Energy efficiency
- Economics
- Energy production

Additional highlights:

- Classroom materials for attending teachers to add to their home classrooms
- Sample curriculum
- Electricity experiments
- Amp meter
- Tour of the University's power generation station

Return this form to:

Central Missouri Electric Cooperative
Energy in Today's Classroom
PO Box 939
Sedalia, MO 65302

Or by email to msr@cmecinc.com

Central Missouri Electric Cooperative
Owned by those it serves...Since 1938